1. Aims

The aims of relationships and sex education (RSE) at our school are to:

- › Provide a framework in which sensitive discussions can take place
- › Prepare pupils for puberty, and give them an understanding of sexual development and the importance of health and hygiene
- › Help pupils develop feelings of self-respect, confidence and empathy
- › Create a positive culture around issues of sexuality and relationships
- › Teach pupils the correct vocabulary to describe themselves and their bodies

HEARTS Trust is committed to providing a happy, caring and safe learning environment for all where everyone feels valued and grows in confidence and independence. We want young people to flourish and to gain every opportunity to live fulfilled lives.

Relationships and sex education (RSE) in our school plays an important contribution to this and, as with all our curriculum, it is underpinned by our values. We aim to build children's self-esteem through developing a positive self-image and helping children to understand the value of making and maintaining healthy, caring relationships. Our RSE curriculum emphasises the importance of respect for all and supports children in taking responsibility for their own wellbeing and health.

2. Statutory requirements

As a primary academy school we must provide relationships education to all pupils as per section 34 of the Children and Social work act 2017.

As a Trust, we offer all pupils a broad and balanced curriculum that is similar to the National Curriculum. We therefore include all the elements of sex education within the unit 'Living things and their habitats' as part of our Science Curriculum and as laid out in the Programmes of Study, 2013.

In teaching RSE, we are required by our funding agreements to have regard to <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/relationships-education-relationships-and-sex-education-rse-and-health-education> issued by the secretary of state as outlined in section 403 of the Education Act 1996.

At Stambridge we teach RSE as set out in this policy.

3. Policy development

This policy was developed with the following stakeholders

Trustees

Local advisory boards

Staff

Parents

Pupils

PSHE association

4. Definition

RSE is about the emotional, social and cultural development of pupils as appropriate for their age, and involves learning about relationships, sexual health, sexuality, healthy lifestyles, diversity and personal identity.

RSE involves a combination of sharing information, and exploring issues and values.

RSE is not about the promotion of sexual activity.

5. Curriculum

Through a curriculum driven by HEARTS values we aim to ensure that all pupils are taught the knowledge and life skills they will need to stay safe and develop healthy, loving and supportive relationships, particularly with the challenges of growing up in the online world.

Our curriculum is set out as per Appendix 1 (Progression Map) but we may need to adapt it as and when necessary.

For more information about our curriculum, see Appendix 2 (Curriculum map).

We have developed the curriculum in consultation with parents, pupils and staff, taking into account the age, needs and feelings of pupils. If pupils ask questions outside the scope of this policy, teachers will respond in an appropriate manner so they are fully informed and don't seek answers online. Staff will try to answer children's questions as honestly and openly as possible, taking into account the child's age and level of understanding.

Questions that pupils ask may relate to:

- › Worries about changes during puberty
- › Contraception
- › Sexually transmitted infections
- › Same sex relationships
- › Online activity, sexting and sexual exploitation

This is not an exhaustive list.

Sometimes it may be appropriate to defer answering a question asked in class until later, in which case the response could be 'That's a hard question – give me a little while to think about it and I'll come back to you'. Sometimes it may be appropriate to make parents aware of a question that has been asked so that they can take up the issue at home if they wish.

Primary sex education will focus on:

- › Preparing boys and girls for the changes that adolescence brings
- › How a baby is conceived and born.

6. Delivery of RSE

RSE is taught within the personal, social, health and economic (PSHE) education curriculum. Biological aspects of RSE are taught within the science curriculum, and other aspects are included in religious education (RE). We teach RSE inclusively to all pupils and make adaptations which are appropriate to the age of the children. Computing also strongly supports the teaching of online safety having strong links with our RSE curriculum. Our class and whole school assemblies support alongside discrete lesson with the teaching and learning of RSE.

Pupils will also receive stand-alone sex education lessons that will be delivered by their class teacher. These will be delivered using a range of teaching strategies including, but not limited to, practical activities, video clips, discussion sessions and written tasks. Where applicable, and only when appropriate (i.e. pupils with SEND and/or SEMH needs), further pastoral support and/or small group teaching may be deployed. Where possible, the school nurse will be invited in to support the teaching of these lessons too.

Relationships education focuses on teaching the fundamental building blocks and characteristics of positive relationships including:

- › Families and people who care for me
  - › Caring friendships
  - › Respectful relationships
  - › Online relationships
  - › Being safe
  - › Aspects of sex education as identified above
- Sex Education (discrete lessons) also include:
- Conception and birth in humans
  - Understanding that sex or making love may be one part of an intimate relationship between adults.

- Health and hygiene during puberty

For more information about our RSE curriculum, see Appendices 1 and 2

These areas of learning are taught within the context of family life taking care to ensure that there is no stigmatisation of children based on their home circumstances (families can include single parent families, LGBT parents, families headed by grandparents, adoptive parents, foster parents/carers amongst other structures) along with reflecting sensitively that some children may have a different structure of support around them (for example: looked after children or young carers).

Equalities

The Equality Act 2010 covers the way the curriculum is delivered, as schools and other education providers must ensure that issues are taught in a way that does not subject pupils to discrimination. We have a duty under the Equality Act to ensure that teaching is accessible to all children and young people, including those who are lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT). Inclusive SRE will foster good relations between pupils, tackle all types of prejudice – including homophobia – and promote understanding and respect.

We aim to deal sensitively and honestly with issues of sexual orientation, answer appropriate questions and offer support. We always challenge homophobic behaviour for example using the word ‘gay’ in a derogatory way. We talk about relationships in terms of who you fall in love with and explain that boys can fall in love with boys and girls can fall in love with girls and this is called gay or lesbian. It is our aim to represent different families and that some children have a mum and a dad as their parents; some children have just a mum or a dad; some children have two mums and some have two dads and some have carers or guardians. That will mean that younger children can develop their knowledge and understanding of relationships in an inclusive way, including the fact that people come from many different types of families.

7. Roles and responsibilities

7.1 The Trustees

The trustees will approve the RSE policy, and hold the Executive team and heads of school to account for its implementation.

7.2 The head of school

The head of school is responsible for ensuring that RSE is taught consistently across the school, and for managing requests to withdraw pupils from non-statutory/non-science components of RSE (see section 8).

7.3 All Staff

Staff are responsible for:

- › Delivering RSE in a sensitive way
- › Modelling positive attitudes to RSE
- › Monitoring progress
- › Responding to the needs of individual pupils
- › Responding appropriately to pupils whose parents wish them to be withdrawn from the non-statutory/non-science components of RSE

Staff do not have the right to opt out of teaching RSE. Staff who have concerns about teaching RSE are encouraged to discuss this with the head of school.

All class teachers are responsible for teaching RSE at Stambridge Primary School. They will be supported by the PSHE subject leader, the schools leadership team as well as the schools pastoral team.

7.4 Pupils

Pupils are expected to engage fully in RSE and, when discussing issues related to RSE, treat others with respect and sensitivity.

8. Parents' right to withdraw

Parents do not have the right to withdraw their children from relationships education as it is a statutory and compulsory component of the curriculum.

Parents have the right to withdraw their children from the [non-statutory/non-science] components of sex education within RSE.

Requests for withdrawal should be put in writing using the form found in Appendix 3 of this policy and addressed to the head of school.

Alternative work will be given to pupils who are withdrawn from sex education. Children will join another class/year group during this time.

9. Training

Staff are trained on the delivery of RSE as part of their ongoing professional development and it is included in our continuing professional development calendar.

The head of school will also invite visitors from outside the school, such as school nurses or sexual health professionals, to provide support and training to staff teaching RSE.

10. Monitoring arrangements

The delivery of RSE is monitored by senior leaders/Head of School/ PSHE lead through:

Lesson dips, monitoring of pupils' work, discussions with pupils, discussions with parents, ongoing training, monitoring of planning and curriculum reviews.

Pupils' development in RSE is monitored by class teachers as part of our internal assessment systems.

This policy will be reviewed by the school and trust every 3 years. At every review, the policy will be approved by the board of trustees.
